

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fuel cell power system is described and which includes a plurality of modules each enclosing a fuel cell stack and a cooling system, and wherein at least one of the modules can be easily removed from the fuel cell power system, by hand, while the remaining modules continue to operate.